Message From Risk Group

Over the years, Humanity has eased into being controlled by those in power and their belief systems. These imposed belief systems, structures, and governance systems have become the de facto blueprint by which most humans, even today, create their own lives and realities. When much of Humanity buys into the beliefs of others that may or may not have the best interests of Humanity—and keep recreating their reality—generations after generations, they are simply replicating Humanity's damage and destruction by becoming thoughtless controlled programs rather than living and breathing humans capable of thinking and even creating new universes. All this controlled recreating and replicating of human existence, structures, and systems by lifeless masses—has created a troubling energy pattern that has, over the years, repeatedly tried to change the core of the very energy field of our Earth through our actions and inaction. So, the question is, what was the original energy blueprint of Earth when it was created, what is the blueprint today, and what needs to be—to protect the future of Humanity?

A Strategic Security Organization

Risk Group is a forward-thinking organization dedicated to exploring humanity's future. As a think tank, it advances humanity's understanding of strategic security risk, navigates the interconnectedness of individual and collective risks, and guides society with a focus on technology, security, and humanity's collective future.

The organization envisions a future where humanity evolves beyond being controlled by external forces, including technology, systems, and structures, towards greater self-awareness and conscious control. Risk Group believes in empowering individuals, fostering self-awareness, and promoting conscious decision-making to navigate future challenges and shape a secure and sustainable future.

About Risk Group Founder

Jayshree Pandya (née Bhatt), Ph.D., currently serves as the Founder and Chief Executive Officer of Risk Group LLC.

She is an award-winning scientist, a visionary leader, and a dedicated futurist who provides strategic leadership to advance multidomain research initiatives applying advanced technological solution platforms. Her passion for solving complex problems using science and technology began during her childhood and continues.

While doing her doctorate, she developed a Hydrogen Production system using Halobacterium halobium. She also developed a desalination process and discovered anticancer drugs. The trends continue as she gets actively involved in developing numerous technological solutions to existing and emerging risks.

She is currently working on many initiatives spanning advanced artificial intelligence, consciousness, quantum, cybersecurity, and more.

Her research across many domains has contributed to more than 100 publications, including four best selling books. In addition, she has presented many keynotes and invited lectures worldwide.
